

Clément Beaunis - Beluga Transport Project Leader

Clément Beaunis joined Airbus in 2000. He started as an Engineer working on Future Projects and Airbus new developments. Following this, he joined the Beluga Programme organisation in 2013 as Executive Assistant to the Head of the BelugaXL Programme. Clément became Airbus Beluga Transport project leader in 2018 in preparation of its launch.

Reza Fazlollahi - Business Development Manager

Reza Fazlollahi joined Airbus in 2011. He is expert in Airline Revenue Management, Fleet & Network Planning, Sales & Marketing, and more recently in Business Development & Commercial as part of the Airbus Beluga Transport project, where he has been involved since the creation of the project to develop the market analysis and the customer portfolio and relationship.

Philippe Sabo - Managing Director, Airbus Transport International

Philippe Sabo is the Managing Director and Accountable Manager of Airbus Transport International, the 100% Airbus subsidiary airline operating the Beluga fleet to transport aircraft components between Airbus plants and the Final Assembly Lines (FALs). He recently succeeded in the Entry Into Operation of the new BelugaXL. His background is in Civil Engineering.