The Airbus VIE programme

A new career development option for Graduates

Airbus is looking to the future

Airbus is a world-class aircraft manufacturer and offers a dynamic and diverse working environment. We have an order book of more than 3,600 aircraft scheduled for delivery over the coming years and, in 2013, we'll see the new A350 XWB (extra-wide body) in service, featuring an uncompromising 21st Century design to improve efficiency and reduce environmental impact.

Working at Airbus

Drawn from over 85 nationalities and 20 languages, our employees are selected for their drive, dynamism and innovation, plus their ability to work together in integrated, transnational teams across geographical and professional boundaries.

It is this sense of teamwork that gives Airbus the technological edge in such a highly competitive industry, whilst the cultural diversity within Airbus enables us to better understand and serve our customers.

The VIE programme

This is an international programme sponsored by the French Ministry of Economy, Finance and Employment. The Volunteer for International Experience (VIE) programme aims to reinforce the international development of companies, whilst offering paid work experience opportunities abroad in large multinational organisations.

The VIE programme has been running for several years and there are now around 6,500 VIEs working in close to 1,500 organisations.

The programme at Airbus is open to graduates who are European Union citizens. For graduates who would be interested in a career with Airbus, this could be the start of a highly rewarding future in a dynamic and forward-thinking sector.

AIRBUS

The assignment

Assignments are worldwide and typically last from 6 to 24 months. They can be in technical or business functions, including engineering, manufacturing or support (e.g. finance, marketing and human resources).

The criteria

You are a highly motivated graduate, having fulfilled the military obligations of your country. Ideally, you will be from an engineering or business school and have an innovative mind, as well as a deep desire to learn. It is likely that you have already worked abroad and are fluent in English; knowledge of other Airbus languages would be an advantage.

The benefits

- ⊙ Excellent tax-free salary
- ⊙ International medical insurance
- ⊙ 2.5 days' holiday per month
- ⊙ Government contribution towards your Pension Scheme
- ⊙ A valuable experience abroad

"As a young professional, VIE represents the opportunity to have valuable work experience abroad and to face new challenges. I enjoy working in employment marketing and taking part in various assignments, which are linked to operational and strategic tasks. I particularly appreciate working in a multinational environment and constantly improving my Airbus knowledge."
