

ENVIRONMENTAL ENGAGEMENT

AIRBUS HELICOPTERS ROMANIA operates in the field of general assembly, maintenance, repair and upgrade of aircraft - CAEN code 3030.

The primary objective of the company is to provide services that meet the customers' requirements in terms of keeping under control the environmental issues generated by the daily activity, in order to ensure environmental protection and pollution prevention.

The organization's management responsibility lies with the general manager of AIRBUS HELICOPTERS ROMANIA, who is committed to ensuring:

- Staff training in order to know and apply the provisions of the Environmental Management System and in order to enhance their professional skills necessary to its operation;
- Establishing and communicating within the organization the environmental objectives and targets so that all the company's activities be under control from the environmental impact's point of view and ensure continuous improvement of the implemented environmental management system.

The Management at the highest level undertakes responsibility for the formulation of guidelines such as:

- The adoption of environmental protection measures in accordance with the applicable legislation and other requirements, including those concerning the effective and efficient use of resources (electricity, gas and water);
- Promoting the principle of waste prevention, improving their management at organization level and their responsible and safe elimination;
- A good operational control for maintenance of the organization infrastructure and maintenance of relationship with the suppliers of products and services having an environmental impact.

All these are found in large in the Environmental Management System, implemented by the organization according to SR EN ISO 14001:2015. The General Manager and the Environmental Management Representative examine the evolution of the system within the management review meetings.

Environmental engagement is communicated to the entire staff of the organization and made available to interested third parties on request. The Environmental Management System Manual and the associated procedures describe AIRBUS HELICOPTERS ROMANIA industry-specific requirements and are distributed in a controlled manner to the entire staff of the company.
